Join local farmer John Oneto for a journey through the richest, most diverse growing region in the country. Get a behind-the-scenes glimpse of farming and learn what makes this 450-mile long, 90-mile wide valley the most productive growing region in the world.

John Oneto and his family have been farming for three generations. He has been an agricultural consultant in Russia and South Africa. He helped to create a roasting system for pistachios, and has processed over 1,500 million pounds of nuts throughout his career.
